

STELLARIS™

Dear Employer,

Due to reasons of galactic importance, _____ will not be able to make it into work today. But worry not, for they will embark on a productive quest of universally approved leadership training while also learning the importance of teamwork, skills which will benefit your company long-term!

What better way of solving conflicts in the workplace than by diplomacy unmatched by the other civilized races of the cosmos (or to simply destroy those toxic to the work environment with laser cannons, if applicable to your company culture)? How better to learn how to deal with stressful situations than dealing with the threat of a Fallen Empire deciding you're they're next target? We believe that you, esteemed Employer, will see the value of this opportunity and therefore will allow _____ as much time off as they require to be able to properly merge the learnings from their intergalactic experiences in their every-day work life.

Sincerely

Fredrik Wester, CEO @ Paradox Interactive

